

Based on their research credentials, The McCormick Group was selected as our Indiana contractor for execution of the State of Indiana's targeted population tobacco use and prevention studies. Independent of this project, this firm's demonstrated research skills may be applied to any project. The McCormick Group served as an excellent resource for our team. Interaction with staff, attention to detail, analysis and qualitative interpretation have been excellent. As a national research institute we recognize the level of professionalism required to execute studies and develop insightful qualitative evaluations that explain the primary data. This firm's work delivered the response protocols necessary to meet the Center for Disease Control's standards to authorize continuance of Indiana's multi-million dollar Tobacco Prevention Award.

The McCormick Group has always delivered what we require and we continue to utilize their services. We highly recommend this firm for your consideration.
